

I am we_diary of humanity

participative climate change art project

collecting activities for survival

Dieses online-Tagebuch wird von dem international vernetzten Medienkünstler Wolf Nkole Helzle geführt und begleitet. Er sammelt Beispiele für einen neuen Umgang mit der Erde, wodurch Schritt für Schritt Lebensgewohnheiten umgestellt werden können, hin zu einer wertschätzenden, bewahrenden Haltung gegenüber dem, was uns umgibt und nährt.

This online diary is maintained and accompanied by the internationally networked media artist Wolf Nkole Helzle. He collects examples of a new way of dealing with the earth, whereby habits of life can be changed step by step, towards an appreciative, preserving attitude towards that which surrounds and nourishes us.

I AM WE_diary of humanity

„In early 2020, I was deeply interested in what I as an individual and what we as human beings can do to deal with the consequences of climate change. The first picture that came to my mind was a huge mountain that is frightening and cannot be overcome. Looking closer, I saw a path that offers itself to be taken, step by step. And so I decided to follow this path (see article „TwinTalk #01“).

Worldwide there are many small and large activities in all areas of life to deal with the changes caused by climate change in a new way. This diary in the form of a blog was created by the internationally networked media artist Wolf Nkole Helzle and is actively managed and accompanied by him so that as many of these activities as possible are accessible to many people. There are already so many examples of a new way of dealing with the earth, which will certainly interest other people. In this way, habits of life can be changed step by step, towards an appreciative, preserving attitude towards that which surrounds and nourishes us: From a new attitude new ideas and new possibilities arise. The diary has an interdisciplinary structure, no area of life is excluded (except: messages of violence and hatred are explicitly undesirable).
