Participatory online photo project with students and teachers of the Sanga Sangai School in Kathmandu, Nepal

In mid-December, Rajesh Shahi calls me from Kathmandu to ask if I would like to photograph his team, the children of his Sanga Sangai school and parents of students via video telephony. Those who know me know the answer: we immediately try out how this could work via Facebook video telephony and after a few trials it worked.

Saperlot, that really touches me now that such encounters are possible here from my studio in Mehrstetten.

SANGA-SANGAI (the Nepali word for „Together“) is a not-for-profit, non-governmental (NGO) child and youth development program based in Kathmandu, Nepal. Sanga-Sangai is registered with the District Administration Office in Kathmandu and has its affiliation with the Social Welfare Council of Nepal. Founded in 2008 by a cadre of concerned, working-class Nepali citizens, Sanga-Sangai wishes to support poor, disadvantaged and marginalized children who are simultaneously battling to escape cycles of poverty and caste politics.

WHO ARE WE?

The result of my first online photo shoot was awarded a prize by the Reutlingen District Office.

The District Office of Reutlingen launched the cultural programme „Soundful and Colourful“ at the end of 2020. Artists from the district of Reutlingen were invited to apply with a work.

And so I am very pleased that my work „WER SIND WIR?“ was successful in the field of media art. It is the result of my first online photo shoot, which was created in search of a new form on the occasion of the current contact restrictions.
