

FACE(S) OF HUMANKIND

Website now with navigation via interactive world map

I am very pleased that the programming of the website with navigation via an interactive world map could now be completed. My thanks for the good cooperation go to Corbinian Stiglmaier in Munich.

The world map can be opened by clicking on the globe symbol in the upper left corner. Clicking on a marked country opens a small window with the collective face of all the individual portraits and a short description of my work in that country. Another click leads to the corresponding page. By the way, the website is also optimised for smartphone use. And here is the link:

At this point I would also like to refer you to the catalogue for the 25th anniversary of this project. It is available for 15 euros and contains all the pictures and stories from four continents and 32 countries.
